Introduction to Welsh Politics

Course Aims

To increase your ability to get involved in both local and national decision making processes.

Having your voice heard is about talking to the right people about the right things and this session will help delegates to identify key decision makers and understand how they can influence them.

By understanding who represents you and how decisions are made in local, and national governments and the European parliament you will be better placed to have a say in decisions that affect our lives and communities.

Issues covered include:

- Who represents you at all levels of decision making in Wales and beyond
- How the local, national and European government works
- How to get involved and who to talk to about the issues that affect you.

Designed for

Anyone who wants to understand how the decisions which affect our lives are made and how to get involved in influencing the people who make those decisions.

Trainer

Michelle Matheron and Jen Bradbury - WCVA, Voices for Change Cymru project www.voicesforchangecymru.org.uk
