

What's important to you?

Learning Disability Wales invites you to a consultation event to explore people's rights and choices, and why they matter.

Learning Disability Wales believes in equal rights for people with a learning disability. These are written down in our 'Charter of Individual Rights for Children and Adults with a Learning Disability'.

We want to hear what rights you think people with learning disabilities should have, so we can make sure Learning Disability Wales is working in the best way.

Who should attend?

- People with a learning disability
- Parents & carers of people with a learning disability
- Anyone working in or with an interest in the learning disability field.

When & where?

- Cardiff - Monday 9th March 2009, 10.30am to 2.30pm
- Wrexham - Friday 13th March 2009, 11.00am to 3.00pm

These events are free of charge. Refreshments & a light lunch will be provided.

Places are limited and must be booked by completing the booking form overleaf and return to Learning Disability Wales.
